In every aspect of school life, high expectations for all pupils are evident and ingrained in the culture and ethos of the school. There is pressure to maintain standards, but the school's leadership recognises that one of its key contributing tools for success has been the importance placed on competitive sport. Through sport, the children begin to develop the important qualities of discipline, resilience, communication, team work, and ambition: qualities that they are then able to use in their learning within the classroom. At Springdale Junior children, through the curriculum and through our extensive range of extra-curricular clubs, take part in a very rich and varied PE curriculum.

Skills are taught through P.E. lessons and through a wide variety of sports provision offered after school, both through teachers, specialist coaches.

Skilled sports and PE Coaches alongside staff deliver the P.E. curriculum to pupils within the school day, and work at lunch times and after school to provide a wide range of sporting activities. This diet of sport builds strong relationships of trust between pupils and the staff involved, and impacts positively upon the engagement and trust between them in the classroom. The discipline demanded of the children in sport impacts upon behaviour within the classroom, and the school attributes the good behaviour for learning within the school as a direct result of the culture of discipline, respect and dedication nurtured through sport activities.

The children's achievements, for participation or success, are celebrated every time in assembly through certificates of achievement and often medals. Displays are completed around school to also highlight the successes and activities carried out by the children.

The funding from the Government is given to raise the standards and profile of Sport and PE within schools. Springdale Junior receives £13, 465.

At Springdale Junior the main examples of effective use of the PE and Sport funding are:

- Paying staff or external sports coaches to increase pupil's participation.
- Quality assuring the work of sports coaches and instructors employed to coach in PE lessons.
- Increasing participation in sports extra-curricular provision
- Employing a local coach to provide weekly after-school sport on the school.

- Providing high quality CPD and resources to support planning so that all PE provision is of a high quality
